VISUAL

CAVS is a small, yet highly respected firm, in the field of audio visual system design and integration and indeed consultancy. CAVS was started by Alan Moffat after years of frustration working with some of Australia's largest AV integrators where research and development, training and testing were components of little to no importance. AV is supposed to be fun and it had stopped being fun.

AUDITORY

Having taken the leap into business ownership CAVS has slowly over the past eight years assembled a team of technicians second to none within the industry, team members are hand-picked and all have a love for audio visual and a natural tendency to be curious and a willingness to push the envelope and attempt different solutions with both AV and IT Hardware.

We pride ourselves on being easy to work with, thorough and precise.

Our core work is certainly more corporate, with a small portion of work now being undertaken in the government and domestic market.

SENSORY

Our solutions are based on our knowledge of both commercial and domestic products and our undertaking to keep up with fast moving technology. Yes we all have "cool systems" at home and yes they constantly get changed, we believe that all staff members should have access to the latest equipment.

We have thrived year to year based on word of mouth, we rarely if ever market or actively promote ourselves as we would rather experiment with ideas, working with our partners to develop products that have traditionally been beyond the budgets of most clients, such as range of software packages for digital signage, room management, desk scheduling as well as reception visitor and contractor management, including an automated induction systems for the trades.

To CAVS it's all in the detail, the fit and finish, the ease of use and the reliability of the solution.

We are pushed by our clients in all sectors of audio visual, be it switching, projection, video conference, user interfaces and the ongoing practicality and serviceability of such systems.

In essence we are very lucky that our jobs are our passion.
